Founded in 1927, The American College has helped financial advisors accelerate and broaden their careers through our many designation, certificate and degree programs. The mission of the College is to raise the level of professionalism of its students and, by extension, the financial services industry as a whole. By imparting expert knowledge—and by emphasizing that such knowledge must be regularly renewed and ethically applied—the College seeks to strengthen not only its students’ professionalism, but also the financial security of individuals, families, businesses, and the society they serve.

Diefendorf, Jr. earned his first professional designation (CLU) at age 24 from the American College and just seven years later the ChFC. He has made provisions for a $50,000 contribution to the College as part of his family’s philanthropic estate planning.
